Individuals referred to the Prevent Programme 2018/19 – Published 19 December 2019

Home Office publication showing that the number of individuals referred to Prevent (5,738) in 2018/19 reached the lowest level since comparable records began (2015/16). The Education sector accounted for the highest number of referrals (1,887; 33%). As in previous years, most individuals referred were male (4,991; 87%), and the majority were aged 20 or under (3,343; 58%). The number of individuals discussed at a Channel panel (1,320) and adopted as a Channel case (561) meanwhile, reached the highest level record. Of the 561 Channel cases, the most common were cases referred because of concerns regarding right-wing radicalisation (254; 45%), followed by Islamist radicalisation (210; 37%).

Police use of force statistics for England and Wales 2018/19 – Published 19 December 2019

Home Office experimental statistics show that around 428,000 incidents of police use of force were recorded in 2018/19, with the most common being restraint tactics (401,000). There were 23,000 incidents in which officers made use of CEDs (conducted energy devices such as Taser®) in 2018/19 marking a 39% increase on the previous year. In the majority of cases (85%), CEDs were not discharged, however use of red dot targeting (non-discharge) increased by 43% in 2018.19 to around 12,000. The most common reason offered for use of force was for officers to protect themselves (292,000). The most common impact factor was the subject being under the influence of alcohol (166,000). On most occasions, the outcome of police use of force was an arrest (309,000). Those subject to use of force were most commonly white (70%), male (83%) and aged 18 to 34 (55%). ## 3. AUDITS AND INSPECTIONS

Both sides of the coin: Police and NCA response to 'county lines' drug offending – 10 January 2020

HMICFRS thematic report explores how county lines drug trafficking is dealt with at local, regional and national levels with a focus on how the police and NCA identify and treat vulnerable people involved in offending. The report finds that while the intelligence picture is improving, forces still do not understand enough about the issue to tackle it as effectively as possible. There are inconsistencies in the way forces identify vulnerable people and the issue does not generally receive the same priority attention as other serious crimes. Forces could work together more efficiently, with the 43 force structure acting as a barrier to efficient deployment, co-ordination and information sharing. Joint working with other public services is effective but inconsistent children at risk (both in and out of school) face a 'cliff-edge' in support when reaching 18. There are also opportunities to make better use of telecommunication restriction orders and modern slavery legislation. Recommendations include:

- Head of the national county lines co-ordination centre to issue revised guidance to forces on how to complete the county lines intelligence collection matrix by 30 June 2020
- The College of Policing to publish its evidence-based guidelines addressing risk assessments for vulnerable people by 31 December 2020 and work with leads to improve risk assessment practices across all forces
- Director General of the National Crime Agency to develop a more coherent and integrated system of national tasking by 31 December 2020 and secure improvements in governance and accountability
- Home Office to carry out a review of the quality and extent of information sharing by public bodies for law enforcement purposes by 31 December 2020, identifying opportunities to address barriers identified
- Home Office to ensure that the definition of child criminal exploitation in the Serious Violence Strategy (or an amended version of the definition) is placed on a statutory footing by 31 December 2020
- College of Policing to amend "release from custody" subsection of the APP on detention and custody to include consideration of the risk of exploitation faced by vulnerable detainees after release by 30 June 2020
- Department for Education to establish formal arrangements for police forces to be notified when local authorities move children at high risk of criminal exploitation from area to area by 31 December 2020
- Director General of the National Crime Agency to create a dedicated, central team to co-ordinate the use of drug dealing telecommunications restriction orders by 30 June 2020
- Home Office to commission a review of the criminal abuse of mobile telecommunications services by 31 December 2020, and explore whether the regulatory environment is in need of strengthening
- Home Office to commission a detailed review of cases involving the defence under section 45(1) of the Modern Slavery Act 2015 By 31 December 2020.

Fire and Rescue Service inspections 2018/19 \(tranche 3\) – 17 December 2019

HMICFRS publish final tranche of FRS inspection reports for 2018/19, covering Buckinghamshire, Cleveland, County Durham and Darlington, Cumbria, Derbyshire, Devon and Somerset, East Sussex, Gloucestershire, London, North Yorkshire, South Yorkshire, West Yorkshire, Staffordshire and Suffolk. Of the 15 assessed:

- 10 were graded 'good' at keeping people safe, with 5 requiring improvement
- 9 were graded 'good' at managing their resources, with 6 requiring improvement and
- 7 were graded 'good' at looking after their people, with 8 requiring improvement
- Only three FRS's were assessed as requiring improvement in all three areas (Essex, Glos, London)

HMCPSI Rape Inspection 2019 – 17 December 2019

HMCPSI follow inspection examined rape flagged cases, interviews with legal managers, focus groups with RASSO lawyers, and other relevant documentation and performance data in order to assess the effectiveness of the CPS in responding to rape allegations. The inspection found that out of 450 rape flagged cases, 200 were sent back by the CPS to the police for further investigation ('admin finalised') around 125 resulted in CPS 'No Further Action' decisions and around 125 resulted in a charge. The report notes that since 2016, the number of cases prosecuted by the CPS has fallen by 52% despite a 43% rise in the number of rape allegations to the police. It also notes a 23% fall in the number of cases referred to the CPS for a decision by the police. The inspection refutes concerns that the CPS are only charging 'easy cases' where a conviction is more likely, with evidence suggesting that the CPS has in fact improved its application of the Code for Crown Prosecutors - from a 10% failure rate in 2016 to a 2% failure rate in 2019.

Disclosure of unused material in the crown court – 9 January 2020

HMCPSI follow up inspection examining the disclosure of unused material in the Crown Court. Findings from 555 live cases examined two prior to trial commencement and 560 cases at the point of charge found that there have been improvements in disclosure since 2017 across both the police and the CPS, however there still remains significant room for improvement. The report identifies, for example:-

- Cases in which the CPS correctly advises the police in the charging advice on reasonable lines of enquiry increasing from 46.3% in 2017 to 73.7% in 2018
- Pre-charge cases of the CPS identifying and feeding back to the police failings of the police handling of unused material increasing from 5.6% to 15.5%. In over 80% of cases the CPS still fail to feedback to police
- Cases where CPS charging advice dealt properly with disclosable and non-disclosable unused material (fully meeting the required standard) increasing from 28.6% to 49.2%
- Compliance with the post-charge duty of initial disclosure in relation to non-disclosable unused material improving from 55.4% to 63.4%
- Compliance with the duty of continuing disclosure in relation to non-disclosable unused material improving from 69.8% to 83.8%
- Compliance with the requirement for the prosecutor to review the defence statement and provide comments and advice to the police improved from 41.2% to 60.0%.

Home Secretary initiates an urgent review of the classification of GHB (gamma-hydroxybutyric acid) and GBL (gamma-butyrolactone) under the Misuse of Drugs Act 1971 in view of their use in the Sinaga case and the murderers Stephen Port and Gerald Motovu. The ACMD last considered the status of GHB in 2013 and raised the regulation of the compound to Schedule 2 on account of its abuse liability and minimal therapeutic value.
